

Strategic Plan

For a Political Science department in a rural area with an agrarian economy and a high degree of first-generation learners, with substantial socio-economic backwardness, it's imperative to stress on goals and strategies that are pertinent to the local milieu while also preparing students for broader academic and professional opportunities.

Short-Term Goals

1. Enhancing Academic Support for First-Generation Learners
2. Digital Literacy and E-learning Integration
3. To conduct more number of market-oriented and syllabus oriented academic seminars and invited lectures for the students.
3. Introduction of Add-On course on topics relevant to society and polity at large
4. Publication of Departmental Journal to provide students with wider exposure
5. To conduct study tour of the department
6. To bolster community engagement through outreach activities for a more in-depth understanding of democracy
7. To prepare students for market-oriented job prospects.

Long-Term Goals

1. To provide Civil Services Coaching guidance
2. To inculcate research zeal among students
3. Introduction of Certificate Course on Human Rights, Women and Work: Labor Rights and Gender Equality, Certificate course on Gender-Based Violence Prevention and Response
4. Publication of question Bank for each semester (Questions along with Answers)