

Strategic Plan
Department of History
Plassey College

As the college's progress continues, the Department of History has taken significant strides by formulating an elaborate strategic growth plan. Key stakeholders, encompassing faculty members, students, and parents, have been instrumental in crafting this comprehensive blueprint. The department firmly adheres to an unwavering commitment to constant and all-encompassing advancement, staying aligned with the college's overarching mission and vision. The strategic plan is thoughtfully divided into two distinct components, each serving as a pivotal pillar in the department's journey toward excellence.

1. Immediate concerns
2. Long-term goal

Immediate Concern:

1. The Department of History of Plassey College focuses on the holistic development of its students and, therefore, intends to introduce various activities to engage our students such as Student seminars, Essay Writing, Poster Competitions, Quiz, and Debate.
2. Introduce interdisciplinary courses that integrate history with other disciplines, such as sociology, political science, and anthropology.
3. The Department of History aims to enhance its museum by adding a greater array of artifacts, miniatures of historical structures, and other essential exhibits, transforming it into a focal point that captivates history enthusiasts in the region. Soon, the department plans to establish a dedicated section within its museum for showcasing numismatics.

4. The department aims to establish a teacher colloquium to facilitate regular academic discussions on emerging research trends in the field of history worldwide.

Long term goal

1. The department aims to publish its annual volume in a professionally bound edition, complete with an International Standard Book Number (ISBN). This initiative underscores the commitment to producing scholarly works of significant academic value on a regular basis, thereby enhancing the department's reputation and contributing to the field's body of knowledge.
2. The department consistently fosters a culture of academic excellence by actively encouraging faculty members to pursue advanced degrees and engage in research across diverse historical disciplines. As a testament to their commitment, all faculty members have vowed to wholeheartedly embark on and successfully conclude their doctoral research endeavours, thereby elevating the department to an esteemed status characterized by an entirely Ph. Ph.D.-qualified faculty cohort.
3. The Department of History aims to establish its own exclusive, fully dedicated space equipped with state-of-the-art IT infrastructure. This initiative reflects the department's commitment to enhancing academic engagement and facilitating advanced research and learning through cutting-edge technological support.
4. The Department of History is poised to transform a postgraduate (PG) department, encompassing an array of comprehensive teaching and research facilities dedicated to nurturing both students and faculty members alike.
